

MORE RECORDS ARE BROKEN AT BIG BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Two more records fell in the Atlantic Coast bowling tournament yesterday. The marks for doubles in the tempins and for the singles in the duckpins were raised. The count formerly held by Eckstein and Burdine of Washington was beaten by Danitz and G. Schwab of Buffalo, and Nick Chaconas' score in the singles was surpassed by Kelley of Lowell, Mass. The Royals of this city bowled better than the other candlepin quints in the first play in that class.

Perhaps the most sensational work of the day was done by Kelley. Chaconas' mark of 340 for the singles in duckpins was thought to be the least likely of any to fall, especially after none of the players succeeded in doing much in his first two contests. However, Kelley of the Lowell delegation came across in his final game with the highest score yet registered by any player in the tournament—145. That figure raised his count to 347, the best set yet registered. Kelley missed marking in only two boxes. In the first, second, fourth, fifth, sixth ninth and tenth he got spares, and in the eighth made a strike.

Had Schwab rolled as well as did Danitz that pair would have set a mark in the tempins which the other bowlers would have had extreme difficulty in passing. Danitz rolled for a count of 246 in his opening contest, knocked down all but 10 pins in his second, and got 15 in the third. Of the 1,137 pins registered by the pair Danitz' set totaled 646.

Royals Prove Capable.

The Royals proved their superiority over the other clubs when it came to bowling candlepins. Notwithstanding that Halley's aggregation had done little with the candlepins, they had come into their own for a count higher than either of the other three rolling fives in that class. The team knocked down 1,437 of the pins in the most effective game of the day in the opening figure, exceeded again on the second figure in duckpins. The Portland Athletic Club of Portland, Me., was hailed as an exceptionally clever bunch, but failed to reach the mark set by the Royals. Portland's count was 1,416. The latest news of Washington and Goodnow's Colonials of Boston also rolled in this class.

It was confidently expected that two or three of the teams in the duckpin competition would set marks something over 1,500, but not one was able to reach that figure. The National Laundry Club, the Velvet Kings, and Casinos were thought to have a chance to roll above the mentioned count, but none was able to accomplish

With the possible exception of the opening night, the largest crowd of the tournament was in attendance. There was much applause and the interest was intense throughout.

The Velvet King team, which was expected to come across in the team duckpin competition with a higher than any other, failed to go above the 1,500 mark. The other teams could not reach a mark of 1,499. A lot of bad breaks and several failures to take advantage of easy spares cost the quartet its chance to pass the 1,500 mark.

Friday night, however, with a set of 315, and Harley with 312, did the best bowling for the Velvets.

The team which has been in the habit of rolling up some unexpected good scores in the local leagues, got a total of 1,461 for its three contests. Groff and Green were right on target for the Colonials, and the former splashed in his first two frames, rolling for 115 and 121.
